

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A septic system tank vertical wall has vertically overlapping grooved rings having specific diameters for receiving existing sealing couplers for septic system pipe. One wall of the groove has portions at different angles from the wall. The grooves are at the same depth and discontinuous at their intersections.